EDUCATION . . .

We would like to dedicate the 1970 Aquila to all the students in the Eastwood School District. We have chosen as the theme of our yearbook, "Education . . . the key to the future."

Although a greater portion of our formal education is spent in classrooms with a textbook as a guide, there are many other activities that cultivate and develop the student's mind. Within Eastwood we are fortunate to have a variety of co-curricular activities that afford the student greater depth and understanding of his academic choices. The wide range of extra-curricular activities gives all the students an opportunity to participate with fellow students in areas which help them to develop physically, mentally, and socially.

We hope that the academic courses and various activities will play a large part in gaining for the students of Eastwood the key to a future in which they can fulfill their goals and ambitions for a fuller life.

The primary concern of Eastwood's Board of Education is to see that the children in our school district are given the best possible opportunity to learn. Along with the citizens of Eastwood, these men work to maintain an educational atmosphere in which students are surrounded by the most modern and efficient equipment and teaching techniques available. Evidence of this dedication to the needs of our children can be seen in the new Junior High building, which when completed will greatly help to alleviate some of the crowded conditions which now exist. If all goes as planned, this new facility will open its doors to Eastwood's 7th, 8th, and 9th graders in the fall of 1970.

CURRICULUM

English And Foreign Language Departmen

Students listen to lecture in English Composition class.

The Language Arts department of E. H. S. offers a wide variety of foreign languages and studies in oral expression.

English I, II, and III are required of all students, and seniors following the college preparatory course may supplement their English background with either English Composition, English and World Literature, or Speech.

Studies in French I and II entail grammar structure, conversation, and French history.

Sophomores carry on a discussion in their English class.

P. Gardner and J. Enriquez practice a humorous Reader's Theater.

English II students listen to a lecture on Silas Marner.

Covers A Wide Range Of Knowledge

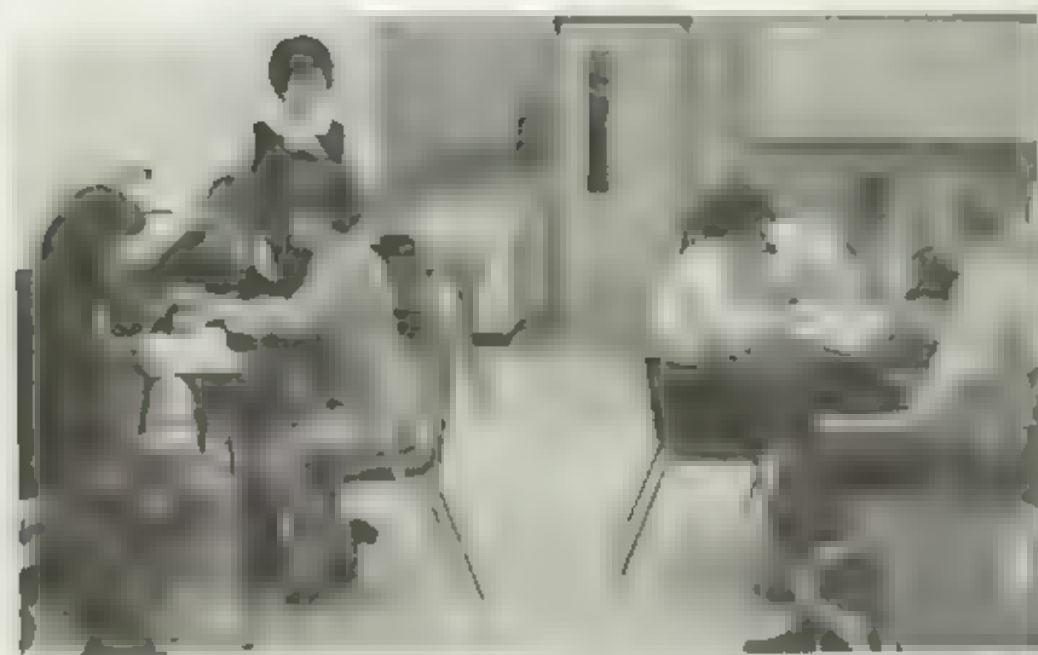

An extensive program in Spanish includes Spanish I, II, and IV. The goal of Spanish students is ever-increasing competence in all forms of communication to insure success in the Spanish-speaking world.

Four years of Latin are also offered. Basic grammar is taught in Latin I and II, and more advanced studies in Latin III and IV include free translation and an in-depth view of Roman culture.

Drama was offered for the first time this year as an experimental course. It includes a study of the different forms of drama and interpretation of dramatic material.

Isabella Azevedo visits French classes. Here she is showing D. Grolle a street in Paris.

French II students advance in their knowledge of France.

H. Rolf and J. Baker in Latin II class.

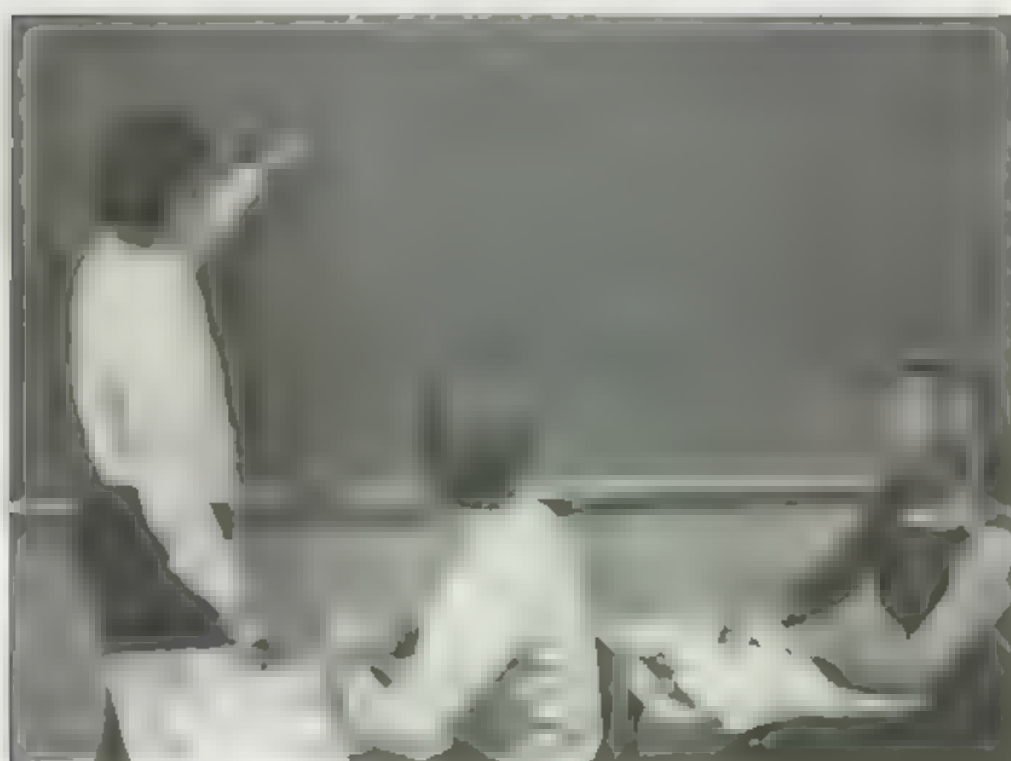

J. Gullufsen and J. Enriquez discuss Peanuts comic strip in Spanish.

Analytical Minds Developed In Math

G. Emch - mathematical mind at work.

In our fast moving world today, many questions originate in the minds of the students of Eastwood High School. The curriculum, which includes in the Math department, General Math I and II, Algebra I and II, Geometry, Trigonometry and a special course, math seminar, answers the numerous questions and solves their various problems. At least two years of math are required for graduation, but those who intend to enroll in college must have Algebra I and II and Geometry. Those who plan to major in math can take a special course, math seminar.

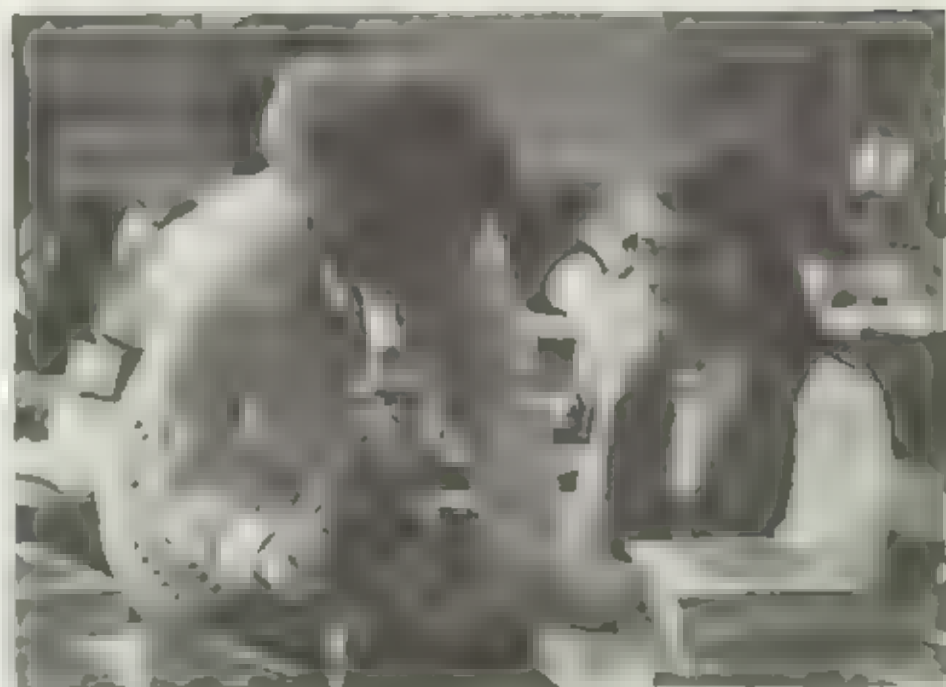

R. Donnell points out problem to fellow students.

D. Brueggemeier explores Trig problem.

Science Proves To Be Very Interesting

To achieve an extensive amount of knowledge about our intricate environment, students may choose to enroll in one of the multiple courses offered in the science department. Earth Science plus Biology I and II involve the study of the earth's composition and living organisms. The compositions of compounds and mixtures of elements are studied and surveyed in Chemistry I and II. Physics is a more advanced course which includes the studies of heat, sound, electricity and mechanics.

C. Seifert and M. Bennett look through a microscope in Biology I.

Earth Science students read from the text in class.

S. Gerwin and M. Schulte discuss a problem in Chemistry I.

Students perform an experiment in Physics.

Business Education Department Aids Students

General business class listen to a lecture by Mr. Reed.

The Business Education department teaches all the different phases of business that will be beneficial to the student in the future.

General Business is a general introduction to business. Typing is offered for those who wish to master the keyboard. Bookkeeping gives greater understanding of the financial operations of a business. Shorthand and notehand enable the student to take more useful notes. Business Law deals with legal implications in daily activities and understanding of rights and obligations in everyday business transactions.

Members of the Bookkeeping I class add some figures in their journals.

Typing students work on an important business letter.

"Eagle's Eye" Published Bi-Monthly

Under the competent guidance of Mr. Paul Barrett, the Journalism II students publish the "Eagle's Eye" twice a month. The staff members write stories, assemble pages, and mail papers to the community.

The Journalism I students assist the staff by typing envelopes and stapling the papers together. This year these students are being incorporated into the staff at the beginning of the second semester. The purpose of this change in the course is to give the first year Journalism students the opportunity to gain experience in reporting and assembling the paper.

The "Eagle's Eye" has been rated superior since 1959 and it was a trophy winner in 1960, 1963, 1966, and 1967.

B. Lenke and C. Babcock remove a stencil from the mimeograph machine.

(RIGHT) Journalism I students work on the newspaper.

(BELOW) Journalism II students busily type up stories.

Art Is For The Artistic-Minded

S. Ballard and J. Richter make paper-mache masks in Art I.

Students take art to exercise their artistic ability and to experiment with new ideas and methods. A different period in the development of Art is studied in each of the three years of Art.

The first course of art study will cover work in water color, poster paints, clay, and a study of line, color, value, perspective and printing.

Art two and three is a continuation of art history, advanced techniques, and projects.

The Art classes' projects are displayed in the showcase outside the Art room for the enjoyment of other students and visitors.

(Left)
J. Patterson perfects a two-dimensional composition.

C. Snyder and G. Otte construct boxes in Art III.

D. Blevins and D. Grolle make a three-dimensional composition out of a box.

Industrial Arts Skills Are Beneficial

The students in our Industrial Arts department show their creative ability by constructing chairs, chests, gun racks, book ends, and various other articles.

The results of many hours of planning, sawing, and sanding are attractively displayed in the showcase across from the cafeteria.

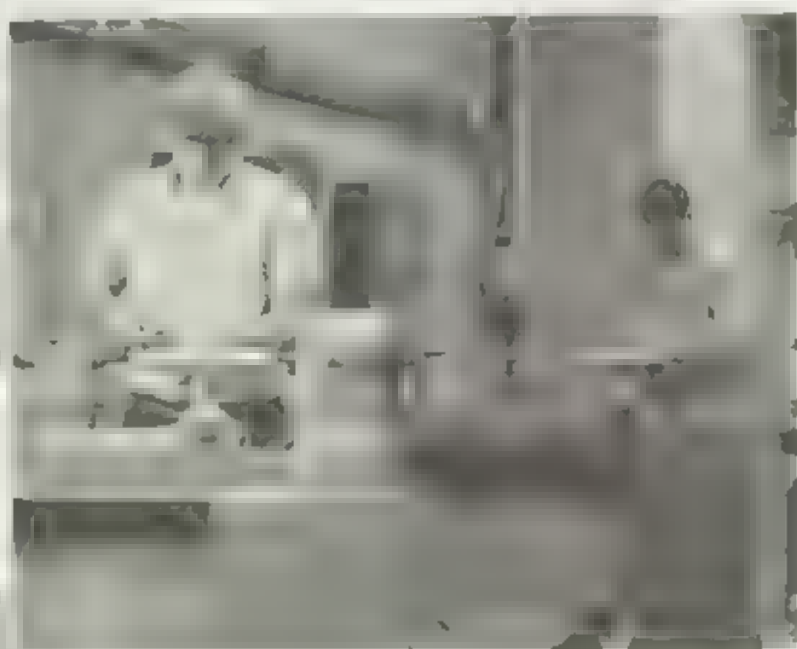

Through knowledge learned in Industrial Arts, the students are given the basic skills which will be useful to them as careers or for their own personal goals.

D. Downey uses a jointer on one part of his main project.

Mr. Madaras demonstrates the use of one of the saws in the shop.

D. Derr and R. Pierce work with a lathe.

J. Alvarez carefully marks an angle.

Homemaking Skills Practiced In Home-Ec.

(Left)
N. Storms and C. Snyder

skills.

Courses offered in the Home Economics Department include Vocational Home Economics I and II, Tailoring, Nutrition, Child Care, and Interior Decorating.

The girls learn various homemaking skills as well as good personal grooming habits and fashion trends.

The girls held an open house in the spring at which time they displayed their various projects.

Vo-Ag Prepares The Future Farmer

Vocational agriculture is a course offered to young men interested in making some form of agriculture their vocation after high school. Projects include such things as raising their own crops and learning by experience what problems they might be faced with in future years. Also, some of the young men raise various kinds of livestock.

The boys presented the annual F.F.A. Banquet this year where many of the boys were awarded for outstanding work.

Vo-Ag farmers put their heads together to carry out Mr. Haskins' orders.

Vo-Ag students examine an intricate tractor part.

Mr. Haskins explains an important concept of food distribution.

Social Studies Promote World Understanding

Government students learn to compute income tax.

Family Living class discusses marriage.

The department of Social Sciences offers a wide variety of courses for those interested in history and social conflict. American History is required of all juniors and includes the study of discovery, the struggle for independence, and the establishment of a national government.

All seniors are required to take American Government. This is a study of local, state, and national political units and aims to present an appreciation for the American way of life and to emphasize the values of a democratic form of government.

For those who wish to further their knowledge of history, courses of World History and Modern European History are offered.

A course in Sociology helps to prepare the student for his role in society, and in Family Living students discuss social problems which directly affect family life.

The problems of banking, international monetary exchanges, price stabilization and federal controls are discussed in Economics.

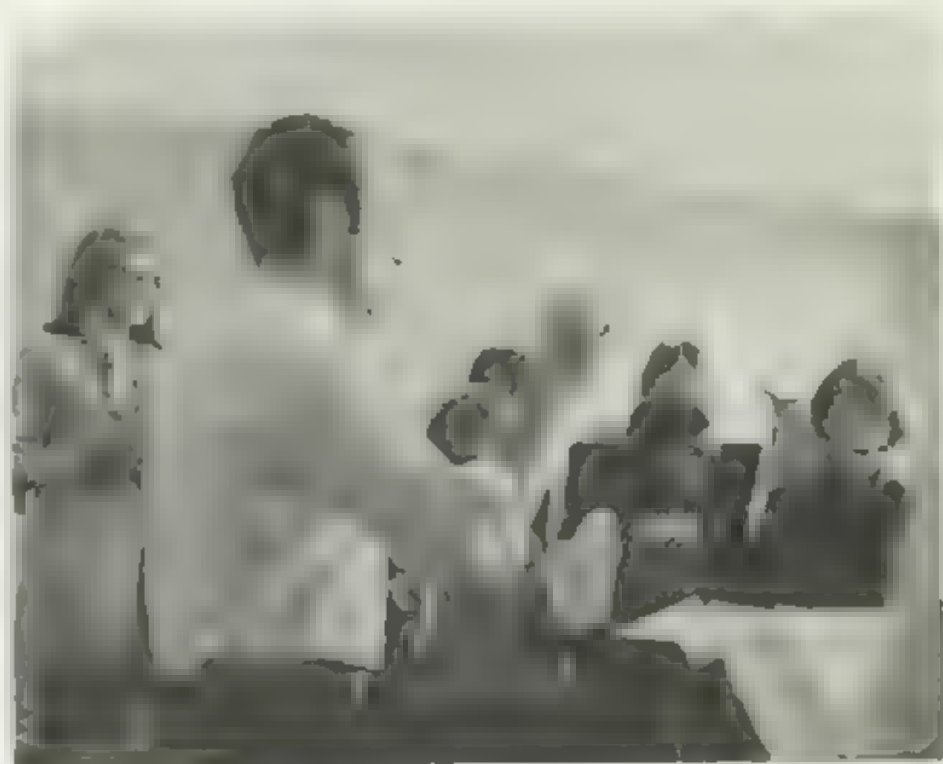

W.W.I. is topic of discussion in American History class.

Concerts And Contests Highlight Music Department

Students interested in vocal music may join Girls' Chorus or Mixed Chorus. Selected students comprise the ensembles and Swing-in' E's.

The instrumental section of the E. H. S. music department includes the Marching Eagle Band, Freshman, Concert, and Symphonic Bands, Pep Band, and Stage Bands.

In September of 1969, the Marching Band traveled to Wapakoneta, Ohio to participate in Neil Armstrong's homecoming parade. In April, the band took part in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Deerwester keeps chorus members on the right pitch.

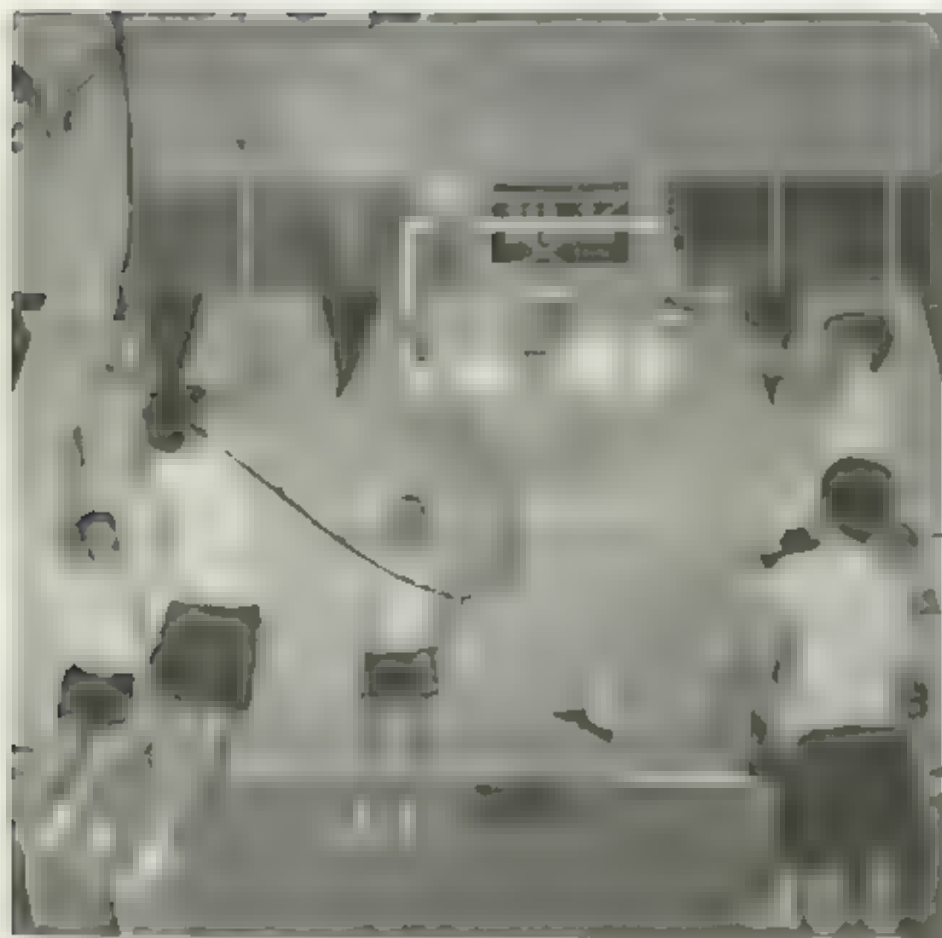

Freshman band members work hard to compete for select band next year.

Mixed chorus members practice a song for contest.

Band members play one of their favorite songs.

Physical Fitness Is Important

G. Marten pops the ball in a fast-moving volleyball game.

The ball is tipped over the net.

The teams anxiously await the serve.

L. Caudill serves for one point.

Driving Simulator Used In Driver Education

Driver Education is offered with the purpose of making safe, efficient drivers out of all the students. Beginning the second semester the students attend classes in the evening once a week where they learn the fundamentals of the operation of an automobile. During the following summer what they have learned is put into practice as they are actually put behind the wheel of a car with a trained driving instructor.

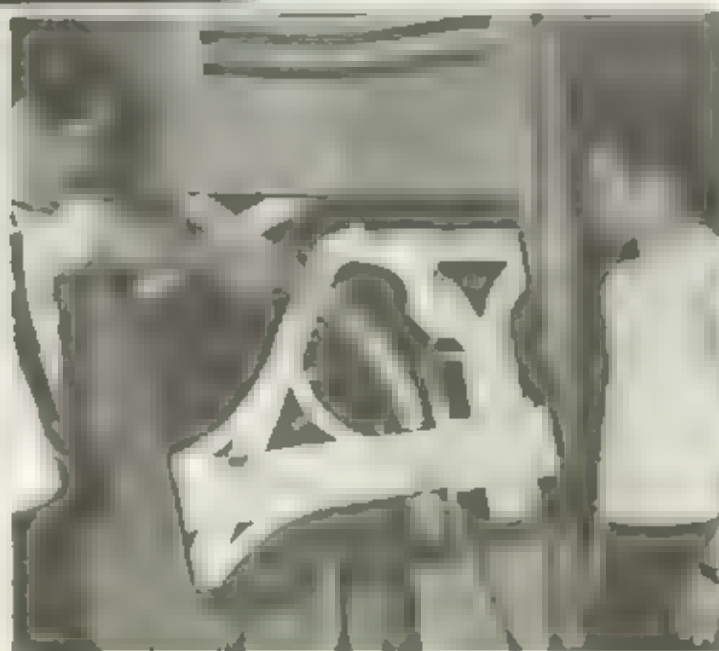

Mr. Bierly demonstrates the use of a driving simulator used for the first time this year.

C. Michel points out precautions for driving on ice.

Mr. Koester asks B. Redieck what he would do in the situation on the driving chart.

A Wide Range Of Vocations Are

I, H. S., carpenters construct a desk.

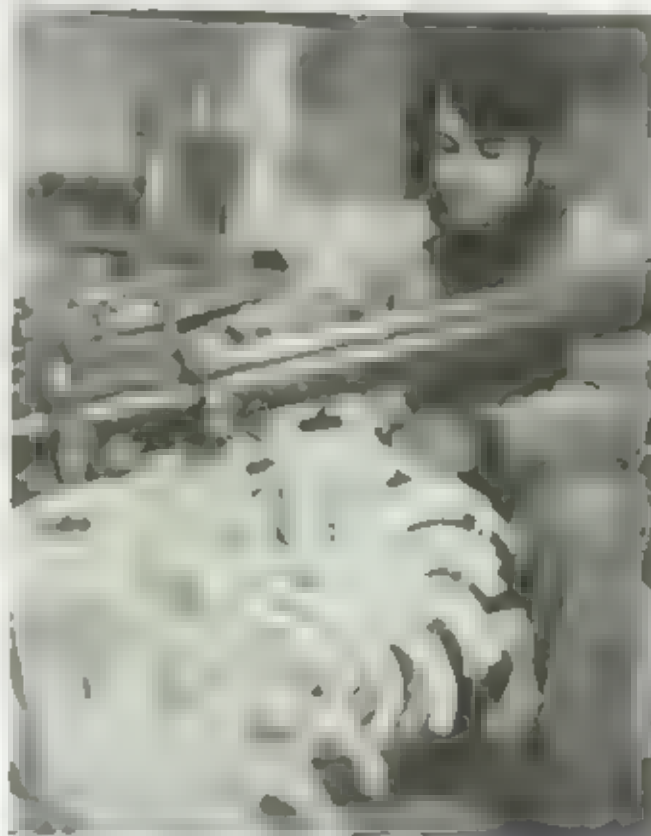

Since Penta-County Vocational School opened in 1965, it has helped educate Eastwood students in specialized fields. This year there are 65 Eastwood students attending Penta.

Students interested in attending Penta-County are given aptitude tests on a designated day to determine their qualifications.

Its many specialized fields include Cosmetology, Dietary Aide, Child Care, Horticulture, Drafting, Data Processing, and High Skill Steno.

Eastwood students maintain contact with their friends at E. H. S. by participating in extra-curricular activities, sports events, and dances.

I. Machefsky works with farm machinery.

V. Marshall and D. Miller work on art projects.

K. Lahey studies a plan.

Presented At Penta-County

P. Buchan keeps a small boy contented with a set of wooden boxes.

P. Elmore and C. Willard busily do office work.

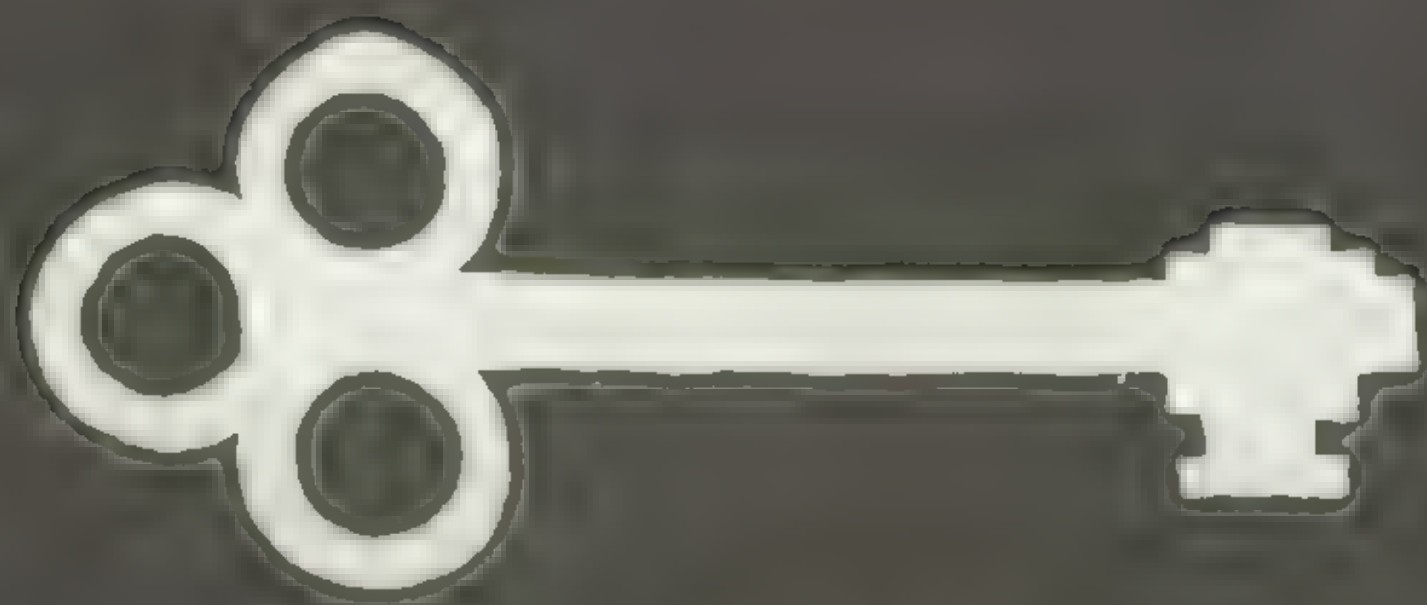

B. Carpenter and D. Niggemeyer study dental equipment.

N. Price sets the hair of P. Schnetzer.

"How To Succeed In Business."

They play it the "Company Way!"

"How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" was presented this year under the direction of Mr. Mark Deerwester and Mr. Lawrence McCormic.

This is a story of a young man who climbs to a position of great power, and of the girl who loyally hangs on during his climb and eventually wins him. The young man's successful climb is due not to hard work, nor to any of the ancient prescriptions for success. He gets ahead by following the simple rules in a book called, "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying."

All the way, our hero, J. Pierrepont Finch, runs into various obstacles and he overcomes them. There's his rival Bub Frump, the boss's nephew; there are the various traps to avoid; the office wolf, the office party, the board meeting, the dangerous secretary, Rosemary and other executives who are out to stop him, and of course the big boss himself, J. B. Biggley.

Great Team Effort

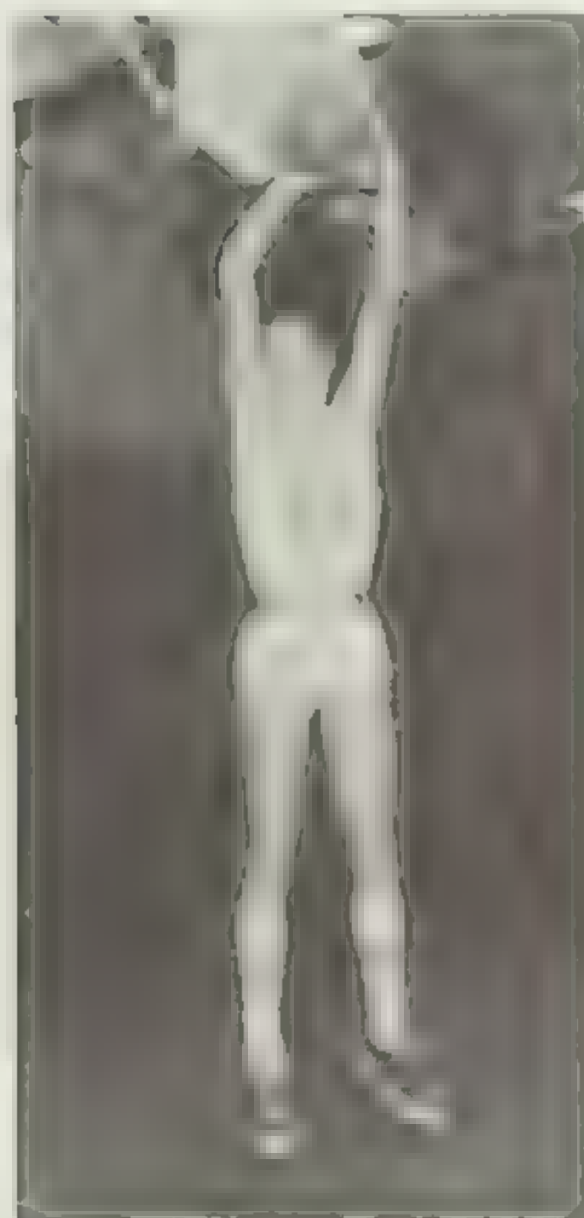

COACH BRUNING

We salute Mr. Dale Bruning who as of January 5 resigned as Head Basketball Coach at Eastwood High School due to medical reasons.

Coach Bruning compiled a very outstanding record during his coaching career. In 18 years of coaching, his teams have won 265 games with only 65 losses. The 1966-67 team was named Northern Lakes League Champions with a 18-0 record.

Some of the many honors awarded to Coach Bruning include being named Wood County Coach of the Year in 1958-59, 1960-61, 1965-66, and in 1966-67. He was also named Northern Lakes League Coach of the Year in 1963-64 and in 1966-67.

We salute you, Mr. Bruning, for your fine service!

As business manager of the 1970 Aquila, I would sincerely like to thank the various merchants for their fine support in helping to make our yearbook at Eastwood High School a success and all of my staff who contributed time and effort.

I thank you again.

Sincerely,

Acknowledgments

Dear Subscribers:

The publishing of a school yearbook is a venture that demands the abilities and fullest cooperation of many individuals working together toward a common goal.

Considerable time must be spent making decisions, planning the order of work, and then working with the other staff hours of work to make the yearbook a reality. The reward for these countless hours comes as we leaf through the finished book which is made up of a part of each individual who has had an interest in its formation.

A word of thanks to Mr. Lowrie for his willingness to be of help on very short notice and to the faculty members for their understanding and cooperation during the several days of picture-taking when their classes were interrupted.

Our advisor, Mr. Donald Gerke, deserves many thanks for his guidance, loyalty, and assistance in the production of a fine yearbook. His efforts proved to be invaluable. I speak for the entire staff when I say, "Thank you Mr. Gerke!"

I would also like to thank my entire staff and especially Christy Schmitt, my co-editor. I wish Christy the best of luck next year and it is my hope that she will have a staff as diligent as the staff that I had the good fortune of working with this year.

Many hours were spent editing and preparing these pages for the staff by Denise Chamberlain, my business manager. This work was greatly appreciated! Also, my thanks to Mark Westerhaus who served in the capacity of student photographer.

Finally, I would like to extend my thanks to you, the subscriber. Without you this book could not have been printed.

The purpose of publishing a yearbook is to capture and record the outstanding moments of the school year. I sincerely hope that we, the staff of the 1970 Aquila, have produced a yearbook that you will enjoy for many years to come.

I wish the best of luck to the staff of 1971. May you be rewarded with as many pleasant memories as I have been.

Sincerely,

Debbie Grolle, Editor-in-Chief
